CHRISTOPHER BOGUSH

I build handcrafted, start to finish public facing web sites with back-end web application user interfaces. My websites load faster than WordPress sites with no need for caching. My server builds are super secure. I can write form entry data directly to a custom built customer relationship management tool for ecommerce. I can pair email marketing and in-bound pay per click or social media traffic directly to your customers. I use a simple set of tools that form the foundation of the world wide web.

SERVER ENVIRONMENT

Linux super reliable operating system installation and management
Apache super secure web server configuration of virtual hosts web site configuration
Vim fast and ubiquitous code editor with syntax high lighting also supporting regex
Linode virtual hosting and DNS management that predates AWS

LANGUAGES

PHP hypertext and css preproccesing via procedural and object oriented programming
MySQL relational and transactional database development and management via line command
HTML hyper text markup language for skeletal layout of the DOM at the presentation layer
CSS3 or cascading style sheets for responsive design, animations and transitions
REGEX or regular expressions for find and replace, and form validation
BASH or bourne again shell for file management and automated tasks
